The current AC will “graduate” in November, the class of 2005. It is time to think about the next class. During this workshop will explore the following questions:

1. In terms of AC membership, what does the law require?
2. What did we learn from the current process?
3. What are the implications for a regional approach?
4. What will be different as a result of a regional approach?
5. How will regional and statewide be integrated?
6. What are models used by other states, government bodies?
7. What models are used in other subject areas?
8. What should be the role of the current AC be in the new process?
9. What will be key in terms of creating sustainable participation?
10. What should be criteria used in selecting members?
11. Other?
