California faces unacceptable risks from flooding, unreliable water supplies, and habitat and species declines.

Stakes are tremendously high and every Californian has a stake.
California must make its economy -- business and finance -- more stable with a higher degree of certainty that natural resources will be sustained over the long term, flood damages will be averted, water supplies will be reliable and predictable, and recreational opportunities will be improved.

Findings
The purpose of this section is to highlight findings derived from the data, analysis and stakeholder collaboration conducted as part of the Update 2013 process. The findings represent a significant step forward in the comprehensive understanding of complex finance mechanisms that, over time, were created in a disintegrated fashion. This information was used as the basis from developing the framework described in this chapter as well as shaping the finance objective and related actions in Chapter 8 - Implementation Plan.

Framework
During the Update 2013 process, a finance storyboard was developed in response to several observations and stakeholder input received early in the process. The most prominent observation was that there was no common language, much less common understanding of, the finance methods and issues across California’s geographic regions, IWM topics, and levels of government (e.g., local, state, federal, Tribal). The purpose of the storyboard for Update 2013, and beyond, is to identify, and provide an organization for, the suite of issues that are critical for advancing a statewide IWM finance planning effort. It also provided the structure and the flow of logic required to synthesize large volume of information and
Application of Water Plan Guiding Principles and Shared Values in the Finance Framework (Discussion Draft 5.9.13)

Purpose: To establish a framework for guiding IWM expenditures we must first develop a set of shared values. These values can be grouped into three major categories—prioritization of expenditures, fiduciary responsibility, and cost allocation. These values are discussed in the following pages along with the 2009 CWP guiding principles that support them. Shared values will be included in Chapter 7 – Finance Framework and/or reflected in revised objectives for the 2013 Update.

Instructions: After reviewing and discussing the following three pages, please provide feedback below using the following question to guide your responses:

What would you add, subtract or change to better support decision-making?

Which shared values should be incorporated into the overarching Update 2009 Guiding Principles and which should be more focused on the finance framework?
Incorporate feedback received during today’s meeting
